

Rainbow Milk Digital Transformation

Friesland Campina's Rainbow Milk brand embarked on a comprehensive digital transformation journey to strengthen customer relationships and showcase their legacy of creating magical family moments. This case study explores how innovative UX strategy and robust development created a platform that celebrates the small joys in life whilst driving meaningful engagement across the region.

The Strategic Challenge

Brand Legacy Preservation

Maintaining Rainbow's association with life's small joys whilst transitioning to digital spaces required careful brand identity protection and intuitive user experience design.

Digital Product Catalogue

Creating a comprehensive digital showcase of Rainbow's entire product range with integrated e-commerce capabilities to serve regional customers effectively.

Recipe Innovation Platform

Developing a unique recipe publishing system featuring Rainbow products for special occasions, encouraging user-generated content and community engagement.

The primary objective centred on creating fruitful engagement that would strengthen Rainbow's long-term customer relationships whilst establishing a robust digital presence across the region. The platform needed to serve as both a product showcase and a community hub for culinary creativity.
